House painting near me

Paint isn't just for walls. Here's how to breathe new life into old things (like worn vinyl floors). Picture: Raymond Forbes LLC/Stocksy United Did you know that a little paint invigorates up carpets, appliances, and even vinyl floors? With proper preparation, you can paint just about anything in the house. Here are seven of my favorite house paint ideas to give new life to old things: #1 Paint Door, Drawer, and Cabinet Hardware Spray Paint turn builder-grade brass locks and hinges from fashion-forward hardware into an oil-rubbed bronze, tin, or stainless steel look. Insert the door lock spindle into a Styrofoam square that holds it upright while spraying the button. Before you paint, insert a tiny dye tape into the keyhole so the paint doesn't shoot up. Prime a metal primer and then paint with metallic spray paint. #2 Brick Fireplace Buy & Sell Here's how to price your home to sell quickly. Cleaning & Decluttering A bleach solution or rubbing alcohol is the best way to disinfect your home. Buy & Sell Being a good partner to the agent you pick will make you also happier house hunters. When you paint the red brick fireplace, you can transfer the whole room. But watch out. Once you paint bricks, it is almost impossible to return to the original brick color. (And you'll probably never paint your home brick siding). You can paint bricks in a color, or achieve some variations - like variations of real bricks - by sponging the slightly lighter and darker shades. Paint half-gloss latex. Bricks are porous and drinks paint, so buy twice what you think you will need. Wear safety goggles and gloves when cleaning with a metal brush. HouseLogic #3 ceramic chalet Imagine how sweet it is to upgrade ceramic tiles without having to bust and cart away tons of old tiles. Play safe and avoid painting tiles in high traffic and high moisture areas. Some good places are the laundry room floor, under the cabinets splashes back (but not above the ranges above, where the pasta sauce splashes), and the walls around the rarely used tubs. To get a smooth look, apply paint zigzag and then roll down to a smooth motion. Use 240-fine wet/dry sandpaper for preparation and between coats. Do not forget safety glasses and masks when sanding tiles. #4 Wooden floorsIf the wooden floor is opened up on another re polish, painting can give them a second life - and give them a chance to give you a personal touch in your home. Before committing to paint color, paint a large piece of foam board with a pattern of the desired color and put it on the floor to give you a good idea of what the finished floor will look like. To reduce the number of hangs in the primer, the coats will need a latex enamel floor paint. It takes each jacket about 24 hours to completely dry. So do not jump on the gun when applying the next thin coat. The painted floor is not completely for almost a month, so keep away from moving back heavy things like pianos and chests of drawers. Protect your painted floor at the sink (wood and paint hate water) and on high-traffic entry roads. #5 Carpet We love the idea of covering stains and reviving carpet with upholstery paint. It saves hundreds of dollars and the hassle of getting rid of an old carpet. Kathie Smula of Spray It New Upholstery Paint says carpets are a short pile of the best candidates for painting; long piles of carpets will be hard and matte if painted. Do not confuse upholstery paint, good carpets, fabric paint, good t-shirts. If you get heavy hands and paint lumps, loosen the area with a bristle brush and dab up excess paint. Six cans of airbrush cover the 8-foot-by-10-foot mat with at least two layers. #6 Vinyl floor painting is a cheap way to get a few more years off old vinyl flooring in kitchens and laundry kitchens. Paint on porch / floor paint. Save your back when sanding floors using a sanding pole as they are plasterboard installers use. Heavily textured vinyl flooring may require a grinding and a second layer of primer. #7 appliances heat-resistant device paint goes up in the kitchen. Use indoor paint to change colors or use a liquid stainless steel application to give the device a stainless steel look. Use rollers for small touchups; two or three thin layers of spray paint are better for full device coverage. Make sure that the front of the appliance is metal, not plastic. Plastic exterior will require foundation, while the device paint will stick more easily to metal exterior. If spray painting, towed the device outdoors so as not to have paint cabinets and floors. If you paint indoors, open the windows to ensure proper ventilation. With a stainless appearance, liquid stainless steel is the go-to product. It's got real stainless steel flakes in it. Apply with a brush. For cleaning & decluttering a bleach solution or rubbing alcohol is the best option to keep your home disinfected.
